PERFECTION!

THE PARKER FOUNTAIN PEN
Speaks For Itself.

FOR SALE BY
Hawaiian News Co., Ltd.
MERCHANT STREET.

GONZALES, MONTEREY COUNTY, CAL., SATURDAY, JANUARY 7, 1899.

Mary had a fountain-pen,
Which had a steady flow,
And every where that Mary went
The pen was sure to go.
It went with her to school one day,
It was not against the rule,
But all the pupils eyes turned green
To see this writing tool.
So when the teacher came to view,
Expecting to black-mark her,
His mouth began to water too,
For lo! It was a "Parker."
Teacher and pupils then did vow
Their nickels to preserve,
That they might get sometime, some
"Jointless" "Lucky Curve."
Tom S. W. Lazier, Gonzales, Cal.

GONZALES, MONTEREY COUNTY, CAL., SATURDAY, JANUARY 7, 1899.

"The pen is mightier than the sword"
If that the pen will write,
Breaks the man who makes such pens
Who with sword does fight.
Parker be the name,
The same deserve
And his name
"Jointless" "Lucky Curve."
Tom S. W. Lazier, Gonzales, Cal.

Side Talks ABOUT

The Geo. S. Parker
Fountain Pen:

This is the famous "PEN WITH THE LUCKY CURVE." No joints, no threads—therefore no leaks, no breaks, no inky fingers.

It is simple, strong and durable, and is fitted with a cap five times as strong as any other. The lucky curve feeds ink perfectly and prevents ink getting over edge of nozzle. The spring lock takes place of old-fashioned, awkward screw thread.
